

ROSENTHAL COLLINS GROUP LAUNCHES ENHANCED WEBSITE

CHICAGO, April, 2014 – Rosenthal Collins Group LLC (RCG[®]), a leading independent futures clearing firm, today announced that its newly enhanced website is now live at www.RCGdirect.com. The re-designed site features new functionality, easier navigation and user-friendly tools, as well as interactive sections.

RCG Chairman and CEO Scott Gordon said: “We’re continually looking for opportunities to improve our clients’ experience. Our new website provides useful information and tools for those visiting our site, while streamlining communications and retaining our commitment to the highest levels of transparency.”

For over two years, RCG has posted a daily chart describing the allocation of customer segregated funds between the various instruments in which the firm invests, accessible from the home page. The firm also has posted its audited financial statements since the website was first established many years ago.

In addition to improved navigation throughout the site, new content sections include Advanced Charts and Quotes and a comprehensive walk-through of available trading platforms to help clients choose which platform best suits their trading style. For the firm’s own RCG Onyx Plus[®] Trading Platform, the site now features a streamlined login process for the web version, and those interested in learning more about the platform will find new information at their fingertips.

News content will be updated more regularly via the home page and RCG’s Twitter feed (@RCG_Futures). Other useful client tools now easier to find include FAQs and tax documentation, as well as resources for contacting RCG staff. Users will also find an interactive timeline for the 90-year history of the firm.
